Matcha at Home

Buying, storing, whisking and creating with matcha

Matcha is not just powdered green tea. It is a shade-grown leaf, stone-ground and whisked into foam, with its own way of being bought, stored and prepared. When all of that goes right, the result is sweet, creamy and free of bitterness.

This guide goes from buying to the bowl: how to read a label, what separates ceremonial from culinary, how to sift and whisk, how to fix the most common problems and 18 recipes, from the classics to café drinks and baking, plus a 7-day plan to learn to whisk.

01

Start with buying

Bad matcha does not improve with technique.

02

Practise usucha

It is the base of every other recipe.

03

Use the troubleshooting page

Lumps, bitterness, little foam: there is a fix.

CHAPTER I

Knowing matcha

From shade to stone

Before whisking your first bowl, it is worth understanding where the colour, sweetness and price come from. It changes what you buy and how you prepare it.

01 How matcha is made

02 Ceremonial or culinary

03 Buying without mistakes

04 Storing it well

CHAPTER I

How matcha is made

Four stages explain everything you taste in the bowl.

1. Shading. Three to four weeks before harvest the plants are covered. Without sun, the leaf makes more chlorophyll (colour) and keeps more L-theanine (sweetness and umami) instead of turning it into bitter catechins.
2. Harvest. The best matchas use the first spring harvest (ichibancha), with the youngest, most tender leaves.
3. Tencha. The leaves are steamed, dried and stripped of stems and veins. The clean dried leaf is called tencha.
4. Stone grinding. Granite mills turn slowly, around 30 to 40 g an hour, so the powder does not heat up. Warm powder loses aroma and colour.

Why it differs from "powdered green tea"

Ground sencha powder (sometimes sold as cheap "matcha") comes from sun-grown leaves. It is olive green, more bitter and does not form creamy foam. With matcha you drink the whole leaf: that is why leaf quality matters so much.

	MATCHA	STEEPED GREEN TEA
What you drink	The whole leaf, suspended	Only what the water extracts
Caffeine (per serving)	≈ 60–70 mg (2 g)	≈ 25–35 mg (200 ml)
L-theanine	High (shading)	Medium
Preparation	Whisked, not strained	Steeped and strained

CHAPTER I

Ceremonial or culinary

The terms are not regulated, but they describe real uses. Choose by what you will make.

Ceremonial

For drinking straight

First harvest, young leaves, stone-ground. Vivid jade green, a scent of sweet grass and seaweed, a sweet finish. It is what you use for usucha and koicha.

COLOUR	bright jade green
TEXTURE	talc, very fine
PRICE	high; 20 to 40 g tins

Culinary

For mixing and cooking

Later harvests, more astringent and a stronger flavour. It stands out in milk, smoothies and baking, where ceremonial would get lost.

COLOUR	duller green
TEXTURE	fine, a little coarser
PRICE	affordable; 100 g packs

There is a middle ground

Many brands sell a "latte" or "premium" grade between the two. For anyone who drinks matcha with milk every day, it is usually the best balance of price and flavour.

USE	RECOMMENDED GRADE
Usucha and koicha	Ceremonial
Hot or iced latte	Latte/premium or entry ceremonial
Smoothies, overnight oats	Culinary
Cakes, biscuits, ice cream	Culinary

BOTÂNORA TIP

Do not pay for "ceremonial" to bake a cake: oven heat wipes out the nuances that justify the price.

CHAPTER I

Buying without mistakes

The label, the colour and the price tell you almost everything before opening the tin.

Read the label

- Origin: Uji (Kyoto), Nishio (Aichi), Kagoshima and Shizuoka are traditional regions. "Japan" with no detail is not bad, but says little.
- Ingredients: only "green tea (matcha)". Sugar, milk powder or "flavouring" mean a premix.
- Grind or best-before date: the more recent the better. Matcha loses freshness in months, not years.
- Packaging: an opaque tin or sealed foil pouch. A clear jar is a warning sign.

Look and smell

SIGN	GOOD	BE WARY
Colour	vivid, almost fluorescent green	olive, yellowish or brownish
Aroma	fresh grass, seaweed, light sweetness	hay, dust, nothing
Texture	talc, clings to the fingers	gritty
Taste straight	sweet, umami, gentle bitterness at the end	bitter and astringent from the start

BOTÂNORA TIP

A very low price for "ceremonial" is almost always culinary under another name. Prefer a small good tin to a big stale bag.

CHAPTER I

Storing it well

Air, light, heat and moisture are the four enemies. Matcha has far more exposed surface than whole leaf, so it ages fast.

1. A closed tin in the fridge once opened, inside a sealed bag so it does not pick up smells.
2. Wait 15 minutes before opening a cold tin: it stops moisture condensing on the powder.
3. Use within 4 to 6 weeks of opening. Sealed and chilled, it keeps a few months.
4. Always a dry spoon. One drop of water cakes the powder.
5. Buy little and often rather than a lot at once.

Is old matcha still usable?

If it has lost its vivid colour and turned more bitter, it is not good straight, but it still works in smoothies, cakes and biscuits. If it smells musty or feels damp, throw it out.

Matcha is fresh like a just-ground spice. Treat it that way.

CHAPTER II

The technique

Sift, whisk, serve

Matcha technique is small and precise: the right amount, water at the right temperature and a wrist movement. With a week of practice, the foam comes out fine every day.

01 The tools

02 Ratios and water

03 Sifting and whisking

04 Troubleshooting

CHAPTER II

The tools

The traditional ones help, but each has a substitute at home.

TOOL	WHAT IT DOES	HOME SUBSTITUTE
Chawan (bowl)	A wide flat base so the whisk can move	A wide ceramic cereal bowl
Chasen (bamboo whisk)	Fine tines that make microbubbles	Mini electric milk frother
Chashaku (scoop)	Measures ≈ 1 g per scoop	½ level tsp ≈ 1 g
Fine sieve	Breaks up lumps before the water	Fine-mesh tea strainer
Kusenaoshi (holder)	Keeps the chasen in shape	Dry standing upright, tines down

Caring for the chasen

- Before use, soak the tines in warm water for 1 minute: they become flexible and break less.
- Afterwards, rinse with water only, no detergent, and dry on the holder or upright.
- Never store it damp in a closed box: bamboo goes mouldy.
- A well-kept chasen lasts months. Replace it when the tines start breaking.

> BOTÂNORA TIP
> A jar works too: matcha and cold water in a well-closed jar, shaken for 20 s, dissolves lump-free. Perfect for iced versions.

CHAPTER II

Ratios and water

Weigh once to calibrate your spoon. After that your eye will do.

PREPARATION	MATCHA	WATER	TEMPERATURE	MOVEMENT
Usucha (thin)	2 g	60–80 ml	75–80 °C	fast "W", 15–20 s
Koicha (thick)	3,5–4 g	30–40 ml	75 °C	slow circles, no foam
Latte base	2 g	30–50 ml	75 °C	fast "W"
Iced base	2 g	40–50 ml cold	cold	shake in a jar

Why 75 to 80 °C

Above 85 °C water extracts bitter catechins faster and "cooks" the delicate aroma. Below 70 °C the foam is weak and the powder dissolves poorly. With no thermometer: boil the water, pour it into another jug and wait about 3 minutes, or mix 3 parts boiled water with 1 part cold.

Water matters

Use filtered, lightly mineralised water. Very hard water makes matcha dull and less sweet; chlorine shows up in the aroma. If your tap water is good for coffee, it is good for matcha.

> CAFFEINE
> Matcha has caffeine similar to an espresso per serving. Pregnant people, those sensitive to caffeine and anyone on stimulant medication should moderate and ask their doctor.

CHAPTER II

Sifting and whisking

Usucha step by step, the base of every recipe.

1. Warm. Hot water in the bowl with the chasen soaking for 1 minute. Discard and dry the bowl with a cloth.
2. Sift. Push 2 g of matcha through the sieve straight into the bowl with the spoon. Matcha clumps from static; sifting is what guarantees a smooth drink.
3. Make the paste. A little water (15 ml) and stir slowly into a lump-free paste.
4. Whisk. Add the rest of the water. Hold the bowl with one hand; with the other, whisk in a fast "W", moving the wrist, not the arm. The chasen barely touches the bottom.
5. Refine. In the last 5 seconds, bring the chasen to the surface with smaller strokes: big bubbles pop and you are left with microfoam.
6. Lift out from the centre, tracing a small circle, and serve at once.

The movement comes from the wrist. The arm just holds.

CHAPTER II

Troubleshooting

The most common mistakes and how to fix each one.

PROBLEM	LIKELY CAUSE	FIX
Lumps at the bottom	Not sifted or no paste	Always sift; make the paste before adding the rest of the water
Very bitter	Water too hot, too much powder or stale matcha	75–80 °C, 2 g, tin open less than 6 weeks
Little foam	Circular movement, arm instead of wrist, cold water	Fast "W" from the wrist; water above 70 °C
Big bubbles	Missing the final refining	Finish at the surface with small strokes
Dull olive colour	Old, oxidised or low-grade matcha	Store in the fridge; use it for cooking
Watery latte	Too little matcha or too much water in the base	2 g in no more than 50 ml before the milk
Bitter latte	Boiled milk	Milk at 60–65 °C
Powder settled in the iced glass	Mixed in cold water without shaking	Shake in a closed jar; stir before drinking
Chasen with broken tines	Dry whisk or pressing on the bottom	Soak first; whisk without touching the bottom

CHAPTER II

Matcha in everyday life

When, how much and with what.

When

Morning and early afternoon

The caffeine comes with L-theanine, which smooths the energy curve. Even so, avoid it after 3 pm if your sleep is sensitive.

How much

1 to 2 servings a day

Each 2 g serving has around 60 to 70 mg of caffeine. Add it to your coffee and other teas of the day.

On an empty stomach?

It depends on you

Some people feel discomfort. If that is you, drink it after breakfast or choose the milk version.

With what

Light sweets

In Japan, usucha comes with a wagashi, a small sweet, before the first sip. A square of white chocolate or a date plays the same role.

Milks and plant drinks

MILK	RESULT WITH MATCHA
Whole	Sweet and balanced; stable foam
Oat	The plant favourite: creamy, neutral, foams well
Almond	Light; may split if too hot
Coconut	Tropical, masks some of the matcha
Soy	Full-bodied; firm foam

CHAPTER III

Eighteen recipes

From the bowl to the bakery

The first two are the traditional preparations. The rest take matcha into milk, ice, fruit and the oven. Measures: tsp ≈ 5 ml, tbsp ≈ 15 ml.

01 Usucha
02 Koicha
03 Classic Matcha Latte
04 Layered Iced Matcha
05 Strawberry Matcha
06 Matcha Tonic
07 Orange Matcha
08 Coconut Matcha
09 Vanilla White Matcha
10 Spiced Matcha
11 Green Smoothie
12 Matcha Affogato
13 Matcha Overnight Oats
14 Matcha Shortbread

01 Usucha

Thin ceremonial matcha, light and frothy.

Hot · 3 min · 1 bowl · 70 ml · Caffeinated · Intermediate

INGREDIENTS

2 g	ceremonial matcha (2 chashaku scoops or 1 level tsp)
70 ml	water at 75–80 °C

Finish. Fine, creamy foam, the colour of jade.

METHOD

1. Warm the bowl and chasen with hot water. Discard the water and dry the bowl.
2. Sift the matcha into the bowl.
3. Add 15 ml of water and make a smooth paste with the chasen, without whisking.
4. Add the rest of the water and whisk in an "M" or "W" from the wrist only for 15 to 20 s.
5. In the last seconds, lift the whisk to the surface to break the big bubbles. Lift out from the centre.

BARISTA TIP Drink in three or four sips straight after whisking: the foam collapses within minutes.

02 Koicha

Thick matcha, almost a tea honey.

Hot · 4 min · 1 bowl · 40 ml · Caffeinated · Technique

INGREDIENTS

4 g	high-grade ceremonial matcha
40 ml	water at 75 °C

Finish. A glossy, paint-like texture with no foam.

METHOD

1. Sift the matcha into the warmed, dry bowl.
2. Add half the water.
3. Knead with the chasen in slow circles, as if dissolving paint, for 30 s.
4. Add the rest of the water and keep circling until glossy and lump-free. Do not make foam.

BARISTA TIP It only works with sweet, unbitter first-harvest matcha. With culinary matcha it is undrinkable.

03 Classic Matcha Latte

The balance of green and creamy.

Hot · 5 min · 1 mug · 240 ml · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

2 g	matcha
40 ml	water at 75 °C
200 ml	whole milk
1 tsp	simple syrup or honey (optional)

Finish. A dusting of sifted matcha over the foam.

METHOD

1. Sift the matcha into a bowl or wide mug and whisk with the water until frothy.
2. Dissolve the sweetener in the matcha, if using.
3. Heat the milk to 60–65 °C (hot to the touch, not boiling) and froth it.
4. Pour the milk over the matcha and finish with the foam.

BARISTA TIP Milk above 70 °C loses its natural sweetness and makes the matcha taste more bitter.

04 Layered Iced Matcha

Green floating over milk.

Iced · 4 min · 1 glass · 300 ml · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

2 g	matcha
50 ml	cold water
180 ml	cold milk
1 tsp	syrup
1 glass	ice

Finish. Serve with a straw and stir at the table.

METHOD

1. Shake the matcha with the cold water in a closed jar, or blend, until smooth.
2. In the glass: syrup, ice and milk.
3. Pour the matcha slowly over the back of a spoon to form the layer.

BARISTA TIP Matcha dissolves well in cold water if shaken hard. Cold water also keeps the colour vivid.

05 Strawberry Matcha

Pink and green, sweet and fresh.

Iced · 10 min · 1 glass · 300 ml · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

5	ripe strawberries
1 tsp	sugar or honey
180 ml	cold milk
2 g	matcha
50 ml	water at 75 °C

Finish. Half a strawberry on the rim.

METHOD

1. Mash the strawberries with the sugar and leave 5 min to release their juice.
2. Put the purée in the bottom of the glass, then ice and milk.
3. Whisk the matcha with the water and pour it on top.

BARISTA TIP The fruit's acidity lifts the matcha's sweetness; mango and passion fruit work too.

06 Matcha Tonic

Elegant bitterness and bubbles, alcohol-free.

Iced · 3 min · 1 glass · 250 ml · Caffeinated · Easy

INGREDIENTS

2 g	matcha
40 ml	water at 75 °C
150 ml	chilled tonic water
1 strip	lemon peel

Finish. A twisted lemon peel.

METHOD

1. Whisk the matcha with the water and let it cool 1 min.
2. Fill a tall glass with ice and the tonic.
3. Pour in the matcha slowly and twist the peel over the top.

BARISTA TIP Pour slowly: tonic foams up a lot when it meets the matcha.

07 Orange Matcha

Orange juice and matcha: a summer breakfast.

Iced · 3 min · 1 glass · 250 ml · Caffeinated · Easy

INGREDIENTS

2 g	matcha
40 ml	cold water
180 ml	strained fresh orange juice

Finish. An orange wheel.

METHOD

1. Shake the matcha with the cold water until dissolved.
2. Glass with ice and orange juice.
3. Pour the matcha on top to make layers.

BARISTA TIP Mild, low-acid oranges work better than lime.

08 Coconut Matcha

Tropical, creamy and dairy-free.

Iced · 4 min · 1 glass · 300 ml · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

2 g	matcha
40 ml	water at 75 °C
150 ml	chilled coconut water
50 ml	coconut milk

Finish. Toasted grated coconut on the rim.

METHOD

1. Whisk the matcha with the water.
2. Mix the coconut water and coconut milk over ice.
3. Add the matcha and stir.

BARISTA TIP Coconut water sweetens on its own: taste before reaching for sugar.

09 Vanilla White Matcha

White chocolate and matcha: dessert in a mug.

Hot · 6 min · 1 mug · 240 ml · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

2 g	matcha
40 ml	water at 75 °C
200 ml	milk
20 g	chopped white chocolate
2 drops	vanilla extract

Finish. White chocolate shavings.

METHOD

1. Melt the chocolate in the hot milk (not boiling), stirring.
2. Add the vanilla and froth.
3. Whisk the matcha with the water and top up with the milk.

BARISTA TIP White chocolate already sweetens; do not add sugar.

10 Spiced Matcha

Cinnamon, cardamom and ginger: the green chai.

Hot · 8 min · 1 mug · 240 ml · Caffeinated · With milk · Intermediate

INGREDIENTS

220 ml	milk
1	small cinnamon stick
2	crushed cardamom pods
2 slices	ginger
2 g	matcha
30 ml	water at 75 °C
1 tsp	honey

Finish. Ground cinnamon on top.

METHOD

1. Warm the milk with the spices over low heat for 5 min without boiling. Strain.
2. Whisk the matcha with the water and honey.
3. Froth the milk and add it to the matcha.

BARISTA TIP Spices go into the milk, never into the matcha water: cooking matcha makes it bitter.

11 Green Smoothie

Banana, spinach and matcha.

Iced · 5 min · 1 large glass · 350 ml · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

1	frozen banana
1 handful	baby spinach
200 ml	milk or plant drink
2 g	culinary matcha
1 tbsp	rolled oats

Finish. Chia seeds on top.

METHOD

1. Blend everything for 40 s.
2. Taste and adjust with honey if needed.

BARISTA TIP Culinary matcha is ideal here: its stronger flavour comes through the fruit and greens.

12 Matcha Affogato

Vanilla ice cream drowned in matcha.

Hot · 3 min · 1 coupe · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

1 scoop	vanilla ice cream
2 g	matcha
40 ml	water at 75 °C

Finish. A spoonful of crushed biscuit.

METHOD

1. Put the ice cream in a chilled coupe.
2. Whisk a concentrated usucha with the water.
3. Pour over the ice cream at the table.

BARISTA TIP The contrast of hot and cold is the dish. Serve at once.

13 Matcha Overnight Oats

Breakfast waiting in the fridge.

Iced · 5 min + overnight · 1 jar · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

40 g	rolled oats
150 ml	milk
2 tbsp	plain yoghurt
1 g	culinary matcha
1 tsp	honey
1 tsp	chia seeds

Finish. Fresh fruit on top in the morning.

METHOD

1. Dissolve the matcha and honey in the milk by shaking in a jar.
2. Add the rest, stir and close.
3. Fridge overnight.

BARISTA TIP Keeps up to 2 days in the fridge. The colour darkens slightly; the flavour does not change.

14 Matcha Shortbread

Green, crisp and fragrant.

Hot · 20 min + 30 min · ≈ 20 biscuits · Caffeinated · Intermediate

INGREDIENTS

100 g	unsalted butter, room temperature
50 g	icing sugar
140 g	plain flour
6 g	sifted culinary matcha
1 pinch	salt

Finish. Granulated sugar round the edges before baking.

METHOD

1. Beat the butter with the sugar until pale.
2. Sift the flour, matcha and salt over and mix just until it comes together.
3. Shape into a log, wrap and chill for 30 min.
4. Slice into 7 mm rounds and bake at 160 °C for 12 to 14 min without browning.

BARISTA TIP A low oven keeps the green. Above 170 °C matcha turns brown and bitter.

15 Matcha Brigadeiro

The Brazilian sweet, green and less cloying.

Hot · 25 min + 2 h · ≈ 25 pieces · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

1 can	condensed milk (395 g)
1 tbsp	butter
4 g	sifted culinary matcha
50 g	chopped white chocolate

METHOD

1. Cook the condensed milk, butter and chocolate over low heat, stirring constantly.
2. When it starts to pull away from the base (about 12 min), turn off.
3. Stir in the sifted matcha off the heat.
4. Cool 2 h, roll into balls and coat in matcha mixed with icing sugar.

BARISTA TIP Matcha goes in off the heat so it does not darken. Its bitterness balances the sweetness of the condensed milk.

16 Matcha Pancakes

Fluffy and green, for Sunday breakfast.

Hot · 20 min · 8 pancakes · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

150 g	plain flour
4 g	culinary matcha
2 tbsp	sugar
2 tsp	baking powder
1	egg
200 ml	milk
2 tbsp	melted butter

Finish. Honey, berries and yoghurt.

METHOD

1. Sift the dry ingredients together, including the matcha.
2. Whisk the egg, milk and butter and fold into the dry mix, stirring briefly.
3. Non-stick pan over medium-low heat: one ladle per pancake, flip when bubbles appear.

BARISTA TIP Low heat keeps the green colour; high heat browns them and hides the matcha.

17 Matcha Tiramisù

Biscuits soaked in matcha with mascarpone cream.

Iced · 25 min + 6 h · 6 servings · Caffeinated · With milk · Intermediate

INGREDIENTS

6 g	matcha
250 ml	water at 75 °C
250 g	mascarpone (or cream cheese)
200 ml	chilled double cream
70 g	icing sugar
200 g	ladyfingers

METHOD

1. Whisk 4 g of matcha with the water and cool.
2. Whip the cream to soft peaks and fold in the mascarpone and sugar.
3. Dip the biscuits quickly in the matcha and line the dish. Cover with half the cream. Repeat.
4. Chill 6 h. Sift the remaining matcha on top before serving.

BARISTA TIP A version without raw eggs, safer for serving a crowd.

18 No-churn Matcha Ice Cream

Three ingredients and a whisk.

Iced · 15 min + 6 h · ≈ 700 ml · Caffeinated · With milk · Easy

INGREDIENTS

400 ml	chilled double cream
1 can	condensed milk
8 g	culinary matcha
1 pinch	salt

Finish. White chocolate sauce or cacao nibs.

METHOD

1. Whisk the matcha with 3 tbsp of the condensed milk until smooth.
2. Add the rest of the condensed milk and the salt.
3. Whip the cream to stiff peaks and fold in, in two goes, gently.
4. Closed tub in the freezer for 6 h.

BARISTA TIP Take it out 5 min before serving so the scoops come out smooth.

MORE RECIPES AND PRACTICE

Seven days to whisk well

One exercise a day. Within a week fine foam becomes a habit.

DAY	EXERCISE	FOAM (1 TO 5)
Day 1	Just sift and make the paste. Notice the texture.
Day 2	Usucha with 70 ml at 80 °C. Time 20 s of whisking.
Day 3	Practise the "W" from the wrist only, elbow still.
Day 4	Compare 70 °C and 85 °C on the same day: note the bitterness.
Day 5	Focus on refining: microfoam with no big bubbles.
Day 6	Make a latte and an iced drink from the same base.
Day 7	Make one for someone and explain what you did.

How to judge the foam

SCORE	APPEARANCE
1	No foam, powder settling
2	Big bubbles that vanish in seconds
3	Patchy foam with islands
4	Covers everything, a few visible bubbles
5	Smooth, opaque, creamy; lasts minutes

MORE RECIPES AND PRACTICE

Flavour pairings

To create your own recipes: what talks well with matcha and what needs care.

FAMILY	PAIRS VERY WELL	USE WITH CARE
Dairy	milk, cream, white chocolate, yoghurt	salty cheeses
Fruit	strawberry, mango, passion fruit, coconut, orange	too much lime
Sweet	vanilla, honey, black sesame, azuki bean	dark chocolate (masks it)
Spices	cardamom, ginger, light cinnamon	clove, anise (dominate)
Savoury	matcha salt on tempura, eggs, avocado	tomato sauces

How much to use in recipes

PREPARATION	MATCHA
Cake (medium tin)	8–10 g
Biscuits (20)	6 g
Ice cream (700 ml)	8 g
Custard or ganache (300 g)	4–5 g
Smoothie (1 glass)	2 g

BOTÂNORA TIP

In baking, sift the matcha together with the flour or sugar: lumps disappear and the colour is even.
